

Title	Anak (Kwaaak!)
Project Image	 A photograph showing five children standing in front of a traditional wooden stilt house. The house has a corrugated metal roof and is supported by wooden pillars. The children are dressed in casual clothing. The ground in front of the house is dirt with some debris and a tire planter. In the background, there are palm trees and a yellow building.
Synopsis	ENG Three 12-year-old friends—Nak, Jeni, and Luwing—dream of becoming stars and perform their self-written Kwak-Kwak Song at school, earning them an invitation to the prestigious Forest Talent Festival. However, the festival coincides with a mass circumcision ceremony in their village, sparking a conflict with Nak's strict father. Defying their parents, the trio embark on an adventurous journey through the forest, overcoming landslides, raging rivers, and wild elephants, fuelled by songs and friendship. Along the way, they face setbacks, clash with each other, and reconcile, and learn the true meaning of teamwork. With moments to spare, they arrive at the festival, delivering a	IND Tiga sahabat berusia 12 tahun - Nak, Jeni dan Luwing - bermimpi untuk menjadi bintang dan membawakan lagu Kwak-Kwak ciptaan mereka sendiri di sekolah, yang membuat mereka diundang ke Forest Talent Festival yang bergengsi. Namun, festival ini bertepatan dengan acara sunatan massal di desa mereka, yang memicu konflik dengan ayah Nak yang keras. Menentang orang tua mereka, ketiganya memulai perjalanan penuh petualangan melalui hutan, mengatasi tanah longsor, sungai yang mengamuk dan gajah liar, dengan semangat yang dipicu oleh nyanyian dan persahabatan. Sepanjang perjalanan, mereka menghadapi rintangan, bertengkar dan berdamai, serta mempelajari arti
